This is your laundry pile, your place to gather the thoughts, odd socks, things to soak... (and (darn it!) maybe the things that need repairing before a rinse)...

the research or the engagement what we are project we want could change the working on to engage about direction of the with our is... research is...

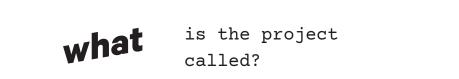

a lot – the research agenda can/should change based on what is learnt not at all – we just accepted by the want to share the public and not at research all controversial not yet started

Your moment to hone your 'laundromat chat' and see how it all stacks up...

who is the target?

where will it take place?

what resources / people do you need to make it happen?

why is it important?

what are the key messages?

